The student council recently has decided on the five restaurants chosen for the food court. We have taken into account not only our own wants as students but we have also acknowledged and taken into account the requests made by the PTA, school donators, and of course board members. Our selections are as follows, Home Economics Kitchen, Bennie's, Veggie Vittles, The Borche Palace, and Sally's Soups and Salads.

The first restaurant, Home Economics Kitchen, was chosen due to its potential for profit, its low cost of production as well as low selling cost, its potential to be healthy, and its ability to teach students on how to run a small business. It is completely owned by the school meaning all profits go directly back to the school. It's simple course as well as it's low price make it the perfect candidate for an introductory job. It may not be the most popular but it is bound to help the school in more ways than just money. The Home Economics Kitchen will be an important cornerstone for the Food Court to become a healthier and more educational based environment.

The second restaurant, Bennie's, was chosen due to its immense popularity, its profit margins, and its relatively low cost. Although not the most healthy option, it gives students the option to enjoy food that makes them feel like they are not trapped in school. Its great popularity within students makes it an obvious choice for a student supported business. It also gives low-income students the option to enjoy a delicious meal that all students, wealthy or poor, can enjoy together in a casual manner. This addition to the food court will net the school a significant amount of profit while maintaining a tame environment at lunch.

The third restaurant, The Borsche Palace, was chosen due to its cultural background, its popularity among families of donors, and its uniqueness. The Borsche Palace is a good way for students to appreciate diversity and culture. While not being the healthiest of selections, it provides opportunity for students to expand their horizons and try new things. This restaurant also does not have bad profit margins, and will provide aptly for the school. The Borsche Palace will be an excellent addition to our lineup.

The fourth restaurant, Veggie Vittles, was chosen due to its healthy options, its vegetarian options, its profitability, and its low price. Veggie Vittles allows a cheap, profitable, and healthy alternative to other less healthy options. It is a healthy, profitable, and delicious option for the students to enjoy. It satisfies the cry for a vegetarian option while also providing a profitable prospect. While tending to other requests it provides a profitable and healthy option to the lineup. We hope that people will enjoy the idea of having a delicious healthy option.

The fifth option, Sally's Soups and Salads, was selected due to its healthy nature, profitability, and popularity. It is a popular healthy restaurant with additional vegetarian options.

It also has good profit margins, which allows it to sustain itself. Its vegetarian options allow it to be healthy and allows vegetarian options.

In conclusion, our options for the food court are Home Economics Kitchen, Bennie's, Veggie Vittles, The Borsche Palace, and Sally's Soups and Salads. These fine selections will allow us to create a diverse, profitable, and educational experience for the students here at Oak Grove City High School.
